1 Introduction

In 2005, the Quang Ngai Rural Development Programme (RUDEP) in coordination with the Sub-Department of Animal Health (SDAH) conducted the competency assessment of paravets and animal health services in all 19 RUDEP communes. The result showed a great demand on paravet training and animal health services. In fact, paravet training activities in Quang Ngai are too feeble. The paravet network in the Province is frail and exists mainly at some lowland communes. The number of paravets and their training level varies from commune to commune and their knowledge level is heterogeneous. In some upland communes, there are no communal paravets at all or no paravet networks. In addition, training for paravets was carried out without any standardized curricula.

On the other hand, the number of paravet trainers in Quang Ngai Province is quite a few and only from Provincial SDAH office; not any trainer from District Veterinary Stations (DVS). Moreover, they have not been familiar to participatory methodology in training paravets. They have very few opportunities to be consolidated and updated the professional knowledge.

In order to build capacity of Provincial SADH and District AHS staff and commune paravets, with the assistance from the Consultant on Animal Health Training RUDEP has conducted a long-term Training of Trainers (ToT) course for a core group of trainers from SDAH and DVSs officers, then coaching them in conducting 9 paravet classes in RUDEP sites:

No.	Paravet class of districts	Communes involved
1	Duc Pho	Pho Chau
	Mo Duc	Duc Phong

9	Ba To	Ba Nam

The curricular of these training courses has been appropriately designed based on the Commune paravet competency and skill profile developed in early 2005.

The ToT course has been divided into 8 training events. Among them, 7 events were conducted in 2006 and early 2007¹ and the last event on topics 35-39 just completed in September 2007.

Right after completing the ToT course, the trainers will deliver above mentioned topics to 9 paravet classes. Then, a final test will be carried out at all paravet classes to classify trainees.

Below is the report on the result of both ToT course and paravet training activities.

¹ The 1st training event was conducted in April, the 2nd one in May, the 3rd one in October, 2006 and the 4th one in January, 2007

2 Result of the ToT course

2.1 The implementation of event 8 of the ToT course

2.2.1 Time and venue

- Training event 8 - the last event of the ToT course was implemented from 30 August to 11 September, 2007: (see Annex 1: Agenda of the ToT course on paravet training)
 - From 30 August to 8 September, 2007: Preparation and rehearsal at SDAH office
 - From 9-11 September, 2007: Practice at paravet class of Binh Son and Son Tinh districts²

2.2.2 Training contents

- The content of this training event focused on zoonoses including:
 - Topic 35: Anthrax disease (Importance, causes, ways of transmission, clinical signs, prevention, treatment)
 - Topic 36: Rabies disease (Importance, causes, ways of transmission to animal and to human, clinical signs, prevention)
 - Topic 37: Tetanus disease (Importance, causes, ways of transmission to animal and to human, clinical signs, prevention)
- To update the epidemic situation, besides topics above we have added 2 new topics:
 - Topic 38: Porcine Reproductive and Respiratory Syndrome – PRRS (Importance, causes, ways of transmission, clinical signs, prevention)
 - Topic 39: Streptococcus suis (Importance, causes, ways of transmission to pigs and to human, clinical signs, prevention)

The contents of topics above will be delivered to trainees in one day and half.

2.2.3 Implementation

- Preparation of training materials:

With the support from the Consultant, training materials have been completed and reproduced to use at paravet training classes such as handouts for trainees, flip-charts, detailed teaching plans, questionnaires and other teaching aids (vaccines, vet-medicines, colour pictures size A4, colour cards...).

- Preparation for the course-ending ceremony at paravet classes:
 - 4 different exam questionnaires including 50 questions per each (right/wrong choice) chosen from a set of 60 questions which cover important points of the content of all topics were designed to use for final test of the paravet training course.
 - Rights and responsibilities of paravets graduated from this course were designed to communicate to learners.
 - 2 types of certificates (one type for ToT, the other one for paravet classes) were carefully prepared
- Practice on training paravets:

² Conducted at Binh Hiep commune, Binh Son district – a convenient venue for trainees from both communes Binh Minh and Tinh Tho to come

After making all necessary preparations and rehearsal, the core group of trainers practised on delivering the content of mentioned topics to paravet class of Binh Son and Son Tinh districts.

In generally, trainers transferred completely the contents assigned for trainees by using the participatory training method.

2.2 Review the whole ToT course

2.2.1 Participants

The final number of SDAH staff attended the ToT course is 38, that increases 11 persons in comparison with 21 persons on the initial list (see Annex 2: Result of the ToT course on paravet training). The reasons for it are:

- The epidemic situation of animal health in Quang Ngai recently is very complicated such as Foot and Mouth disease in pig and cattle/buffalo; Avian Influenza disease in poultry and PRRS in pig that affected to trainees' participation. Since these 21 persons are the main force of the SDAH office and DVSs, who are responsible for control and vaccination against animal diseases, some of them attended insufficiently not only in the preparation and rehearsal but also in practising at the field. To overcome this difficulty, SDAH assigned some stand-by staff to substitute key trainers in case of their absence from ToT class.
- The SDAH's human resource has been just supplemented with some young newcomers. 8 persons of them were assigned to attend some later events of the ToT course.

2.2.3 Classify trainees

To classify trainees we based on the performance of each person throughout the course on following criteria:

- Attendance
- Professional capacity
- Training skills and methods
- Enthusiasm

The result revealed that 27 persons (71.1%) were awarded certificates. Among them, 10 persons (26.3%) were considered excellent, 17 persons (44.7%) qualified and 11 persons (29%) disqualified: (see Annex 2: Result of the ToT course on paravet training)

Classify	No. of participants	%	Of which
			Male (head)	%	Female (head)	%
Excellent	10	26.3	8	21.1	2	5.3
Qualified	17	44.7	15	39.5	2	5.3
Disqualified	11	29.0	6	15.8	5	13.2
Total	38	100	29	76.3	9	23.7

The result classified by provincial and district levels is showed below:

Classify	Provincial level		District level
	No. of participants	%	No. of participants	%
Excellent	8	80	2	7.1
Qualified	0	0	17	60.7
Disqualified	2	20	9	32.1
Total	10	100	28	100

Comments:

- The participants considered disqualified because they attended insufficiently to the ToT course. Especially, most of them were newcomers who were not been trained on both training methodologies and earlier events. However, their participation in this course were a good foundation for them to take part in further training course in future.
- A total of 28 participants at district level attended at the ToT course. Among them, only 2 persons (7.1%) were considered excellent, 17 persons (60.7%) qualified and 9 persons (32.1%) disqualified. In order to conduct effectively paravet training classes in future (if any), so it is very necessary to implement them by a group of 2 trainers, among them one trainer from provincial SDAH and another from DVS.

3 Result of paravet training activities

3.1 Training organization

Paravet training activities were organized and conducted by SDAH trainers under the monitoring and guidance of the Consultant. There were a total of 9 paravet classes for 19 communes belonging to RUDEP. Each paravet training class was conducted by a group of 2-3 trainers from both SDAH and DVS.

3.2 Participants

The criteria for the selection trainees for paravet training courses was following:

- Motivated/committed and willing to work voluntary as village paravet
- Long term local resident in the locality
- Healthy
- Nominated by villagers and approved by the Commune People's Committee (CPC)
- Take gender equity into consideration when selecting trainees.
- Focus on members of VSCFs and Action Groups (AG) who gain the best result in Farmer Animal Health training courses

The number of attendant was below:

No.	Paravet class of districts	Total of learners			Sex				Of which
		Planned (head)	Actual (head)	%	Male		Female		19 communes involved	No. of learners

The percentage of female/male was 23.5/ 76.5% (42/ 137). Although the gender equity considered when selecting trainees, there were 2 paravet classes only male (Son Ha and Son Tay).

3.3 Training result

To classify trainees we based on following criteria:

- Attendance
- The result of pre-test at training events and the final test
- Actively in training
- Apply learnt knowledge into practice (taking part in vaccination campaign ...)

The main issues of the contents of all events expressed in a 50-question questionnaire which were answered separately by each paravet at the final test on the last day of the training course. The answer-sheets collected then marked into scale 10 (each right answer will be given 0.2 point). This activity was strictly conducted under the direct supervision of the Consultant.

The learner's knowledge is classified into 4 levels as following:

Mark	Classify
Above 9	Excellent
8.0 – 8.9	Good
5.0 – 7.9	Qualified
Below 5	Disqualified

The over-all mark of trainee's was calculated as below:

$$\text{Over-all mark} = \frac{(\text{The pre-test average mark of all events}) + (\text{The final test mark} \times 2)}{3}$$

The result revealed that 166 persons (92.7%) were awarded certificates. Among them, 26 persons (14.5%) were considered excellent, 59 persons (32.9%) good and 81 persons (45.3%) qualified. 13 persons were considered disqualified (see Annex 3: Result of paravet classes)

4 Course-ending ceremonies

A series of ending-closing ceremony were conducted at paravet training classes with the representatives of RUDEP, SDAH leaders, DVS leaders and staff and especially representative of DPC, District Economic Department, CPCs.

In order to create favourable conditions for paravets working in future, 166 vet-tool boxes (estimated VND 400,000 per each) were handed at the ending-course ceremonies to paravets who awarded the certificate.

A review workshop on ToT course and paravet training activities in 2006-2007 was stately conducted at Hung Vuong hotel on September 30, 2007 with the participation of representative of Provincial DARD, DPI, leaders of upland districts and communes, representative of paravets and most leaders and staff of SDAH and DVSs.

These ceremonies are very important to make stakeholders understand the effective and methodical training activities of SDAH under support from RUDEP. As a result, SDAH training activities in future will be get support from them and graduated paravets will be supported and empowered in their work.

5 Conclusion

- Despite certain difficulties during implementation, efforts of stakeholders contributed to success of the one-year and a half training courses.

- That capacity of SDAH technical staff has been basically improved enabled to train paravets with fundamental skills appropriate with conditions of Quang Ngai for 19 RUDEP communes, contributing to increasing efficiency in animal epidemic prevention, boosting animal husbandry development, and generating income for farmers.

6 Recommendations

To conduct effectively the ToT course and paravet classes, the following issues should be addressed:

- For RUDEP 3:
Continue supporting the SDAH in:
 - Opening advanced training courses for SDAH's key trainers and technical staff;
 - Opening training courses covering methodologies for incompetent learners and SDAH's new staff;
 - Expanding paravet training activity to the remaining communes of the province.

- For local authorities:
 - Getting paravets who were issued certificates via paravet training courses involved in local animal epidemic prevention;
 - Paying concern to paravets, assisting and facilitating them to participate in veterinary tasks in localities;
 - For communes where paravet training has not been carried out, training plans should be prepared soon.

- For learners of ToT course:
 - Translating the acquired knowledge into practice in respect to some areas such as propaganda, mobilisation, training and veterinary extension in localities;
 - Keeping learning and attending advanced training courses to continuously improve technical knowledge/skills.

- For learners of Paravet training courses:
 - Inhesitantly adopting the acquired knowledge in practice for helping their communities;
 - Reading more veterinary documents for getting updated information, keeping close contact with District Animal Health Stations for guidance and assistance;
 - Joining in Commune Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Boards for opportunities to improve knowledge/skills.
